ENGINEER KILLED

Accident Near Vincennes Causes Delay of Trains.

Engineer Garland, of the B. & O. S-W., lost his life in an accident three miles west of Wheatland about one o'clock this morning. He was drawing freight No. 94 and it is said was running at a speed of about fifty miles per hour when a flange broke on the engine and the side rods began to hammer the cab. The engineer jumped and struck a pile of cross ties. His neck was broken and death was probably instantaneous. Garland was a young man about thirty years of age and married. He had been running an engine about three years.

The fireman and head brakeman remained on the engine and were unhurt. The engine remained on the track but was considerably damaged and none of the cars were derailed. Trains were delayed several hours as a result of the accident. No. 48, the new express train from St. Louis, due here about 2:45, was about 6 hours late. No. 12, the early morning passenger train eastbound, followed the express out of Washington and arrived here about 9:05, 4 hours and 25 minutes late. The nine o'clock train from the west was forty minutes late. An unusual number of engineers and trainmen have met with fatal accidents during the past few months and it is hoped that a period of better luck is ahead.

BAUERLE:—Agnes Bauerle, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bauerle, of Jennings county, died early Monday morning after an illness with tubercular meningitis. Age 7 months. Funeral and burial at Four Corners Tuesday.

Will Locate Here.

E. B. Langston, who returned here recently from Olustee, Oklahoma, was in the city yesterday. Mr. Langston went to Oklahoma about a year and a half ago and purchased a good farm about 125 miles south of Oklahoma City for $42.00 per acre. He sold his farm recently for $75.00 per acre, having made a profit of about $3,000 in that short time. He thinks he has done well and he wants to come back here now to live and is in the market for a good Jackson county farm. He says the southwest has great possibilities for a young man with some capital and who is industrious and energetic and starts in to develop the country intelligently. He is an uncle of Mrs. Zelma Leas of this city, and has had Mrs. Leas' son with him in Oklahoma. He thinks that Oklahoma City is one of the most promising cities in the southwest.

To Grow Apples.

Many fruit growers have frequently stated that the soil and climate in Southern Indiana are suitable for the growing of fine apples. In order to demonstrate that this can be done, the Purdue University Experimental Station have leased for three years an apple orchard near Borden in Clark county and will endeavor to show that Indiana can again be made a banner apple state. They will expend a large sum of money in making experiments at this new station and it is believed excellent results will be accomplished. A man from Purdue University will have charge of the work.

CIRCUIT COURT

William Wilson Found Not Guilty of Selling Liquor Unlawfully.

William Wilson, of Crothersville, who was on trial Monday in the Jackson Circuit Court charged with selling unlawfully intoxicating liquors in the town of Crothersville, was acquitted after the jury had deliberated about thirty minutes. According to the indictment the beer was sold last September.

The state called four witnesses who said that they had purchased beer from the defendant at the time named in the charge. Three of the witnesses stated that they had paid a quarter with the understanding that they could drink all the beer they desired. The other witness for the state said he only had fifteen cents and that he had given that to the defendant who agreed that the witness should have all he wanted. It is said the evidence revealed the fact that this witness drank a gallon and a half. Prosecuting attorney Swails, represented the state, and J. S. Campbell was the attorney for the defendant.

A case growing out of the failure of the Peoples State Bank is on trial today. The question is concerning the distribution of the surplus funds between the stockholders and bondsmen and directors. Not A Candidate.

Charles F. Remy, of Indianapolis, who has been asked by his many friends throughout the state to become a candidate for Secretary of State, has stated that he will not be a candidate according to the Columbus Republican which says:

When Charles F. Remy, of Indianapolis, who made an address at Seymour Sunday afternoon, dropped off a north bound car here with his brother, Postmaster Edward A. Remy, of Seymour, and former Lieutenant Governor Hugh T. Miller, of this city, Sunday evening, a reporter made a grab for the three. To be sure it was Sunday, but then men have been known to discuss political matters on Sunday and there was a chance that Mr. Remy might have something to say.

He did have something to say, and it was this. He says he is not a candidate for the republican nomination for secretary of state and that he is not going to be a candidate. After a great deal of talk about Mr. Miller for secretary of state and a denial from the local man that he would run this year, some of the republican leaders sought Mr. Remy and asked him to be a candidate. He declined to run. He says he is for Hugh Miller and the latter says he is for Charlie Remy.

Mr. Remy says that when the matter of running for secretary of state was broached to him he suggested two men in Indiana of the type of man he thinks would make a good man to lead the ticket in this, an off year. His suggestions are Joseph Oliver, of South Bend, or Marshal T. Reeves, of this city. He says he does not think either of these men would care to run for office, but he thinks they represent the type of man who ought to take a prominent part in politics. Both are large employers of labor, both are progressive, both stand for the best things in life and both are on good terms with the labor men, is the way Mr. Remy sums up the qualifications of the South Bend and Columbus manufacturers.

Farmer Prevents Wreck.

Harley East, a farmer residing three miles east of Bedford, flagged a Southern Indiana passenger train Sunday evening and prevented it from running into a cut of cars which had broken loose from the train and ran down the high hill east of Bedford. The seven cars and the caboose came to a standstill near East's farm, after running about three miles at a terrific speed. Knowing that a passenger train would be due in a few minutes, East hurried up the track and succeeded in flagging the track which was running several minutes behind its scheduled time. Had the train been on time a bad smashup would have resulted.

AN UNKNOWN HERO.

Man Trying to Abolish the New Slavery is Eulogized.

For many long, terrible years the United States has been sweltering under the yoke of the tyranny of servants. With waiters, parlor car porters, cooks, maids and even barbers in their present advanced condition, what man has not felt the mailed hand of the mighty? Waiters have withered us, porters have petrified us, barbers have bullied us, maids have mystified us and cooks have cooked us until all the fight has been taken out of us. And until now we have been looking for another Lincoln in vain.

Hope, however, has come at last. A hungry patient of a Chicago restaurant became impatient the other day at the slowness of the waiter. Ah, how many of us have felt that impatience and remained supine, the Washington Post says. But this Chicago man was made in heroic mold. He did not beckon timidly to the waiter and feebly remonstrate. He did not send for the head waiter, who would have given him an icy reproof. He did not send for the proprietor and go through the usual argument.

None of that for this man. He was a hero, a pioneer, a Harriet Beecher Stowe, only his way the way of deeds rather than words. He simply proceeded to "clean out" the place, throwing dishes at the waiter, knocking chairs to right and left, kicking the head waiter in the shins, and giving the proprietor a cuff on the neck for luck.

And in the police court the next day the magistrate, with the light of a zealot in his eyes, regarded the prisoner as the leader of a great and wondrous movement out of darkness. He leaned over the bench, listening sympathetically to his story. He nodded in appreciation, punctuating the dramatic recital with ecstatic "ahs" and "ohs." And at the end he drew himself up in his chair on the bench and sonorously decreed: "It is not necessary to wait longer than a reasonable time for an order to be filled."

To such men as this magistrate and the Chicago diner the world owes a tremendous debt. To such a man as Senator Stone, of Missouri, who actually cowed a Pullman porter, the world should take off its green plush hat and sing "The Star-Spangled Banner." They are the leaders in a great national movement toward the abolition of the new slavery. Who will say now that the twentieth century may not breed a man with courage to outface a cook?

QUEEN FOSTER MOTHER.

A Pleasing Story About Queen Amelia of Portugal.

This story of Queen Amelia of Portugal is copied here from the Madrid papers:

A short time ago, while motoring in a country district, the chauffeur mistook the road, and the party did not know which way to turn. One of the gentlemen in attendance asked a peasant the way. The man looked at the magnificent car, then at the company, and thought they were making fun of him.

"As if you did not know," he said. The Queen laughed and assured him they were lost. Not until then did the peasant condescend to point out the way.

"Give him this for his trouble," said the Queen to one of her escort, handing him a gold piece.

"Here, my man," said the latter, "is a little present from the Queen."

The next day the peasant presented himself at the palace and asked to see Queen Amelia.

"I know her," he said mysteriously; "I saw her yesterday, and I want to see her again."

The attendant would have turned him away for a madman had it not happened that one of the ladies-in-waiting recognized him. Presently he was ushered into her majesty's presence.

"Yes, 'tis thou," he said, with great satisfaction. "I did not tell thee yesterday; I have two little ones without a mother. Will thou be their mother?"

With womanly tenderness Queen Amelia accepted the trust and had the little ones placed in a special institution under her patronage.

Apples.

At a land and irrigation show held in Chicago, one of the visitors, an ex-Congressman from Iowa, waxed eloquent over the apple exhibit. "The second most beautiful thing in the world," said the gallant Iowan, "is a ripe apple."

The love of apples is by no means confined to ex-Congressmen. There are a lot of everyday Americans whose heartstrings twine around the Northern Spy, whose souls thirst for the juicy Astrachan. The steaming dumpling, sweet and palatable and indigestible, has become a familiar part of the autumn landscape.

As the years go, 1909 was a great year for apple. Thirty-five million barrels is the latest estimate for the United States and Canada—twelve million more than in the previous year. Most of the Eastern States have shown gains, the West has produced a better quality, and the Southern States have doubled last year's yield.

Yet there is something vitally wrong with the apple situation. Insects, tree diseases, produce dealers and railroads have conspired to prevent the general use of this fruit as food in our large cities. Within the boundaries of one of our great apple growing States the resident of the Metropolis delivers up five cents for one apple polished on the sleeve of an Italian vendor, and sighs for the days of apple wealth back on the farm.—Success Magazine.

All Sunsets Are Not Alike.

Mr. and Mrs. Peterby were sitting on their piazza. It was late afternoon and the sun was making his final preparation to gild the western heavens. Peterby sat in mute admiration.

"Did you ever see such a superb sunset?" he exclaimed, rapturously. "It is simply wonderful! Amazing!" Mrs. Peterby did not join in his enthusiasm. She shifted uneasily in her chair.

"You would think anything was good," she replied. "You've just had a good dinner. But it's just an ordinary sunset, nothing more."

"Where are you going?" asked Peterby. "Why can't you sit still? Just like a woman. No artistic appreciation."

"I'll be back presently," replied Mrs. Peterby.

Four or five minutes passed. She came back and sat down. There was a silence.

"It is beautiful," whispered Mrs. Peterby. "Don't think I ever saw a finer sunset. See that exquisite coloring off there—and those feather effects. Perfectly lovely!"

Peterby turned his face slowly and gazed at her.

"What did you do in the house just now," he asked.

Mrs. Peterby's face beamed.

"Why," she replied, "the cook was going to leave, but she told me she would stay another month."—Success Magazine.

THE MINISTER'S WOOD-PILE.

The old New England preacher, says Mrs. Alice Morse Earle in the Sunday-School Times, could not afford to use candles. In the home of one well-known minister the wife always knitted, the children ciphered and studied, and the husband wrote his sermons by the flickering light of pine-knots, with his scraps of sermon paper placed on the side of the great leathern bellows as it lay in his lap.

Generally the minister had plenty of wood—it was part of his salary—and his loads were expected to be always of good hard wood. One thrifty parson, while watching a farmer unload his yearly contribution, remarked:

"Isn't that pretty soft wood?"

"And don't we sometimes have pretty soft sermons?" was the sharp retort.

In some towns a day was appointed which was called a "woodspell," when it was ordered that all the wood be delivered at the parson's door; and thus the farmers had a cheerful mid-winter gathering.

The Rev. Stephen Williams, of Longmeadow, made a note of the "wood-sledgings" in his diary in 1757:

"Neighbors sledged wood for me and shewed a Good Humour. I rejoice at it. The Lord bless them that are out of humour and brot no wood."

The wood did not always come in when needed. One November Sunday the Rev. Mr. French, of Andover, gave out this notice in his pulpit:

"I will write two discourses and deliver them in this meeting-house on Thanksgiving day provided I can manage to write them without a fire."

Christianity in Japan.

In the Protestant Episcopal mission in Tokyo, Japan, are two boarding schools for girls, which have some 350 students. The principals and teachers are Japanese, with the exception of two foreign missionary teachers.

In St. Paul's college for boys and young men are 600 students, and there would be many more if they could be accommodated.

Making Himself Heard.

Samuel Rogers, the poet, is no doubt a great wit, but he has a turn for malice and even brutality. Some one once asked him why he never opened his mouth except to speak evil of his neighbors. He replied: "I have a very weak voice, and if I did not say malicious things I should never be heard."—Memoirs of the Duchess of Dino.

Acme of Real Stupidity.

It is claimed that in his boyhood Shakespeare was so stupid that he did not know enough to come in out of the rain. Perhaps through this stupidity he got so wet that he became the great intellectual ocean whose waves touch the shores of all thought.

Motherhood.

Motherhood is a spiritual relation, and it should be coterminous with the kingdom of womanhood. No woman is worthy of the name who has not in her the mother heart.—Mrs. Arthur Somervell.

A Sure Proof.

"Is young Bascom really the Christian he professes to be?"

"Well, he always dances with the wall-flowers at balls he goes to."—Baltimore American.

Occasionally a girl discovers that the young man after her own heart isn't after it at all.

Men who have advice to give are never stingy with it.

RAM'S HORN BLASTS.

Warning Notes Calling the Wicked to Repentance.

If you let a falsehood lie it will soon die.

Wouldn't it be delightful if one-half the compliments paid us were true?

We never know what our friends will do for us until we get into trouble.

It is ever common to remember other peoples' faults and forget our own.

The shorter the step from one sin to another, the sooner one wears out his soul.

Originality is a fragment of another man's thought linked with a bit of one's own.

What foolishness to live to pile up dollars if the devil is to be the only gainer by it.

Many a man's head has been turned by somebody else coming into church a little late.

Not everyone who goes to church is a Christian, nor everyone who stays at home a sinner.

Angels know how much we want the Lord to come, by what we are doing to help make the devil go.

God provided for the worst that could happen to man before He breathed into him the breath of life.

A man's vices lead him into the broad way, and after that he takes the lead and drags the vices after him.

The man who would be worthy of honest praise must practice constantly the virtues which inspire honest men to praise their fellow men.

The "drys" think that if the saloon is not taken out of politics, politics will die. The "wets" fear that if the saloon is taken out of politics, both will die.

One may part with his health in the acquiring of millions—then health is not worth as much as money, but after that health is worth more, for his millions cannot buy it back.

DIFFICULT CONVERSATION.

The American traveler, as a rule, is well informed as to all that concerns a stranger far from his own country; but he sometimes finds it difficult to understand why any other language than that of his native land should be used.

Two Americans traveling in Germany wanted to send a telegram, and went to the office. The operator could not speak a word of English, the Americans were ignorant of German, and after a conversation in which each party politely explained matters to the further mystification of the other, one of the Americans turned to his companion and said:

"Well, Jim, take one of those blanks and write out the message. Then he'll understand it well enough."

This "Jim" did, but the operator pushed back the paper with an amiable smile, but a convincing shake of his head.

The travelers looked at each other, puzzled, but "Jim" had an idea.

"I tell you what I'll do. I'll spell it out to him. The luncheon can't help but understand if the words are all spelled to him, letter by letter."

Fortunately the message was short, and the clerk listened politely, but without a sign of comprehension. He evidently considered it another peculiar development of a strange language.

Seeing no signs of understanding, the men went in search of a friend who could write their message for them, and explained to him that the telegraph operator was evidently a stupid person.

"I don't blame him for not understanding English," said one, "but what I do blame him for is because he can't tell what a word is after you've spelled it for him. That's what I call more than ignorant!"

A Long Felt Want.

An American once went to Windsor castle and insisted upon seeing Queen Victoria. He was told that 't was quite impossible, as an audience with the queen could be had only by appointment. Still he persisted, and then they told him flat-footed that before seeing the queen he must state the object of his visit. He said he wanted to shew her a new piece of furniture, a throne bed—a perfect throne by day and a perfect bed by night.

Her Sad Finish.

"Did you ever know a girl to die for love?"

"Yes."

"Did she just fade away and die because some man deserted her?"

"No. She just took in washing and worked herself to death because the man she loved married her."—Houston Post.

Between Friends.

Miss Homeleigh—Perhaps you won't believe it, but a strange man tried to kiss me once." Miss Cutting—Really——Well, he'd have been a strange man if he'd tried to kiss you twice.

The average man spends more money on a foolish habit than he does on his wife's hats.

DEFENSE OF MINCE PIES.

Properly Made of New Material, They Are Very Toothsome.

A Polish coal miner in Ohio, biting onto a slab of Pittsburgh mince pie, struck a rivet and broke off seven teeth; but, being extremely hungry and having no money to buy actual food, he kept at his grim task. A minute later he struck a stick of dynamite in the core of the same pie and was buried from his late residence the next day, leaving a wife in Poland and another in Ohio.

Thus lives are wiped out and homes are made desolate by the ordinary mince pie of commerce—a dubious and sinister victual, in whose dark depths a million dangers lurk, the Baltimore Sun remarks. The average mince pie manufacturer, we have no doubt whatever, starts out in business with high ideals and a real love for his art. It is his firm intent to devise only the best and purest pies and to use in them nothing but genuine fruit, honest soup meat, choice brands of fourth-rate flour, clean bacon rinds and chemically pure glucose, magnesia and aniline dyes.

But as he goes on and the mad thirst for opulence seizes him the temptation to sophisticate his product becomes irresistible. His first false step may seem harmless—it may be nothing worse, indeed, than the addition of some sterilized wood pulp to his pie filling—but that first false step is fatal. Ere long he is launched upon a dizzy career of chicanery and subterfuge. Abandoning apples and peaches entirely, he begins to fill his pies with carrots and turnips. Instead of flour, he tries plaster of paris; instead of soup meat, cat meat; instead of sugar, New Orleans molasses; instead of magnesia, manganese. Finally, instead of baking his pies, he merely varnishes them with shellac.

No wonder the ordinary mince pie of our hosteleries and eating houses, our public banquets and our cook stands bears an evil name. No wonder it is avoided as a pestilence, even by shoe drummers. And yet mince pie, per se, is not nefarious. Made at home, and without too great a dependence upon left-overs and other culinary debris, it may be both nourishing and palatable—a sound and even delightful viand, with something of lobster salad's hearty solidarity and something of the wiener schnitzel's haunting mystery. Made upon the eastern shore of Maryland, where pieology is an art as noble as piano playing or therapeutics, it may rise even higher than that, becoming a true victual of the first class and ranking with Smithfield ham salad and fried smelts.

Light and Dark Cigars.

A striking example of the ordinary smoker's ignorance on the subject of smokes is the popular superstition that a dark looking cigar is stronger than a lighter colored one. Some strong cigars have dark wrappers, but the dark wrapper does not by any means indicate a strong cigar. Dark, gummy tobacco, if thoroughly cured, is the mildest form. Of course if dark tobacco is not thoroughly cured it will be strong, but so will light tobacco, for that matter. Any cigar man will bet you that the dark color is usually, though not always, a sign of a ripe, well cured leaf, which is therefore milder nine times out of ten than the lighter hued leaf. But when it is known that every manufacturer makes both dark and light cigars and that he uses exactly the same blend of filler in both and that the wrapper only constitutes a small fractional part of the cigar it is clearly seen that the shade of the wrapper has little to do with the strength of the cigar. Ask the dealer for a strong cigar. He hands out a dark one, and the imagination does the rest.—Harper's Weekly.

A Sacred Bath.

The number of queer things the various peoples do in the name of religion are legion, but no sight is more odd than that which may be witnessed on Badrinath, a peak of the Himalayan range in northwestern India. The peak looms 22,901 feet above the sea, and at an altitude of 10,400 feet there is built a shrine of Vishnu overhanging a great tank fed by water from the sacred thermal spring. Annually about 15,000 pilgrims climb the weary path to the shrine, and every twelfth year, when the Kumbh Melah is celebrated, the number increases to at least 50,000. Arriving at the shrine, the pilgrims adore the great idol, liberally fee the Brahman priests and bathe in the sacred tank. This latter performance is slightly startling, as men and women, absolutely nude, plunge into the water with cries of joy until the entire tank is a seething mass of humanity, resembling very much the familiar "wig-gletails" of an infrequently emptied rain barrel.—New York Times.

Professional Advice.

Father Dooley had just tied the knot. He looked expectant, the bride looked sheepish, and Pat, shifting from one foot to another, looked guilty. At last he began: "I—I—don't like to be mane, Father, but I changed me clothes in a hurry and left me wages in me other pants." Then he added, in a whisper, "Take me down in the cellar; I'm a plumber, and I'll show you how to fix the gas meter so't won't register more than forty per cent."—Success Magazine.

YOUNG FOLKS

Hieroglyphics.

This game, which is really a trick, is played with a confederate, and if cleverly done, a "goodie company" may be deceived.

A Showman, armed with a long, pointed stick, stays in the room and his confederate, the Guesser, is shut out, while the company thinks of a word. The Guesser is called in, and the Showman proceeds to spell out the word on the floor, with sundry taps and strokes of his stick.

The solution is simple enough. The taps represent the vowels; one tap for a, two taps for e, three i, four for o, five for u, and the Guesser need pay no attention to any other talking. Suppose, for instance, the company selects the word "book." The cue is given in the sentence which the Showman uses to call the Guesser in. He would say, in this case, "better come in," and the Guesser would know at once that the first letter of the first word in that sentence will be the first letter of the word to be guessed.

The Showman taps four times with his stick and makes a lot of misleading strokes and signs; then he taps four times more for the second o, then he says, in an off-hand way: "Kind of hard, isn't it?" or any other sentence introduced by the letter k. He finishes up with more signs and strokes, as if to puzzle the Guesser, who, of course, has already secured his word.

The Showman must be quick and clever in placing his consonants at the beginning of spicy sentences, otherwise the humor of the trick is lost.

The Sitting-Room Lamp.

Aunt Ethel took off the shade from the lamp on the sitting-room table, struck a match carefully on the little iron Chinaman's back, and in a moment there was a pleasant light in the room.

"Aunt Ethel, what makes the lamp burn?" asked Constance.

"Kerosene," replied Aunt Ethel, who was busy with her knitting.

"Would the lamp burn if there was water in it?" asked the little girl.

Aunt Ethel shook her head smilingly. "Of course not, Constance," she said. "The oil feeds the cotton wick in the lamp, and the wick feeds the flame."

"What does ker-o-sene mean?" questioned Mary, forgetting the shadows in the corners and coming close to the table, where she could watch the flame. "Dear me," replied Aunt Ethel, "I shall have to find that out. I don't know myself," and she laid down the knitting and brought a big book from the book shelves and began turning the leaves.

"Here it is," she said. "Well, it is a made-up name, partly Greek. It means fuel—that is, something that will burn—and it means light."

Both the little girls repeated the word over as if not quite satisfied.

"It is really an oil," went on Aunt Ethel, "that is found in the ground, and it is of more value to all the people of the earth than all the minerals, such as silver, gold and copper. But its real name is petroleum. Kerosene is made of petroleum.

"Does everybody have it?" asked Mary.

"Who found out that it could be burned in lamps?" asked Constance, before Aunt Ethel could answer Mary's question.

"Well, Constance, I will answer your question first, because it says right on this very page that no one knows who first used petroleum, as a thousand the Japanese were using it, and called it 'burning water,' because it came from the ground. And they dug wells where the oil was found to secure a supply. And in Egypt there were wells of oil, and the people used it for light, very much as we do now."

"I guess everybody knows about it," said Mary, for her aunt had answered both questions.

"There are oil wells in this very State, New York," went on Aunt Ethel, "and in Ohio, where Aunt Mary lives, and in Texas, and in California. And years before the Bible was written, way off in Russia, on the western shore of the Caspian Sea, are many wells of oil that supply many people."

"Wait, I'll get the big atlas, and you can show us on the maps just where the oil wells are," said Mary, eagerly; and in a few minutes the big book with its colored maps was spread out on the table, and Mary and Constance found the places in China, in Japan, in Burma and in Russia where petroleum is found. Then Aunt Ethel told them over again the list of States, and these they found very easily.

"My! I never thought before about what made the sitting-room lamp burn!" exclaimed Mary, as they put away the big atlas.—Youth's Companion.

Sunrise and the Rooster.

Once there was a man who was awakened every morning by the trumpet of a rooster. This so provoked him that at last, putting his head out of the window, he shouted:

"Miserable creature! Is it not enough that you crow by day? Early every morning you crow and crow until you cause the sun to rise. Then I have to get up and work. If you do not keep quiet in the morning I shall certainly wring your neck."

And so he did, but too late he found that the sun rose from other causes than the crowing of a rooster.—Chicago News.

Nothing Was the Matter.

"A newsboy I knew," said a yachtman, "took to the sea. He became cabin boy on a tramp collier. He was a good boy, but—"

"Once, when our white squadron was at Newport, this collier steamed in her slow way shoreward with her ensign upside down, the signal of distress—distress of the direst. Instantly a pretty sight was to be seen. Every warship in the fleet lowered a lifeboat, and all of those beautiful, snowy boats, manned by jacksies in spotless white duck, raced for the grimy old collier at breakneck speed—a pretty sight indeed. The captain of the collier stood on the bridge. He waved his hat, and the crews pulled all the faster. As they drew close they heard the man's cries.

"Come on! Pull! Get down to it!" he reared, dancing about wildly.

"What's the matter, captain?" the first officer to reach the collier asked breathlessly.

"Why, nothing's the matter," the captain answered in a surprised voice.

"Then why's your ensign upside down?"

"The captain looked aloft, then frowned.

"It's that boy Hank again," said he. "And here I thought it was a regatta."

Why He Hadn't Tried It.

The party was encamped on the Bear river in eastern Utah, when a prospector came along one morning on a mule. He had his jaw tied up and at first seemed inclined to pass on without a word. On second thought, however, he halted and gruffly queried:

"How far to Salt Lake?"

"Three hundred miles."

"Humph!"

"Traveled far?"

"About 200 miles."

"Get your jaw hurt?"

ROCKEFELLER FOUNDATION

Senate Committee Acts Favorably On the Same.

A WORLD-WIDE WORK IN VIEW

Oil King's Personal Attorney Explains to the Committee Something of the Scope of Gigantic Beneficence Proposed by His Chief—A Charter Is Asked For Along the Lines Under Which Is Conducted the Affairs of the General Education Board, to Which Mr. Rockefeller Has Already Given $53,000,000.

Washington, March 12.—The senate District of Columbia committee has passed favorably upon the bill to incorporate the Rockefeller foundation, which will be reported out within a few days. This action was taken by the committee after it had listened to a statement by Starr J. Murphy, one of the incorporators of the board, in reference to Mr. Rockefeller's plans and purposes. Mr. Murphy was unable to enlighten the committee as to the amount which Mr. Rockefeller ultimately will place at the disposal of the trustees of the foundation, but he expressed the opinion, based on Mr. Rockefeller's previous philanthropic work, that the sum would be ample to enable the foundation to carry on its world-wide work in a most satisfactory manner.

"Mr. Rockefeller," said Mr. Murphy, in describing the purposes of the foundation, "now desires to have a charter with such scope that wherever there arises a human need the board created by that charter will have power to give help."

Mr. Murphy added that the language of the incorporating bill was therefore necessarily indefinite. The passage of the bill, in Mr. Murphy's opinion, would not be unprecedented, it being in many respects similar to the charter that was granted to the general education board, to which Mr. Rockefeller already has given $53,000,000. Mr. Murphy explained further that it was the intention of Mr. Rockefeller to build for the future as well as the present. "The charities of the Twentieth century," said he, "will not be the charities of the Twentieth-first. The dead hand should be removed from charitable bequests, and they should be left in the hands of the living. It is impossible to define the scope of the work proposed by the donor, and it is his desire to avoid limitations."

"There is more danger," said Mr. Murphy, "in giving unwisely than in not giving at all. The donor of this foundation always insists upon the same investigation and care in his work of philanthropy as he demands on making a business investment from which he expects cash dividends. In this instance he expects that his dividends will not be in cash, but hopes to get his returns in the shape of the welfare of humanity."

BUSINESS MEN SEEK EARLY SETTLEMENT

Philadelphia, March 12.—Several peace movements have been put in motion by the United Business Men's association, composed of merchants whose trade has been hurt most by the general strike. They voted enthusiastically for every plan suggested, from a gentle appeal to President Taft to the threat of receivership for the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company. They sent a telegram to Seth Low, president of the National Civic Federation, inquiring if the federation could arbitrate between the P. R. T. and its former employees. Mr. Low's reply was extremely disappointing to the shopkeepers. He telegraphed that the federation could not act unless appealed to by both parties.

The business men's meeting was lively, but out of it nothing definite came. Despite the news that President Taft has decided to send here Labor Commissioner McNeill to investigate and report to him on the merits of the situation between employers and labor, there seems to be no likelihood of arbitration.

When Mayor Reyburn heard of the action of the association he said he did not see how he could change the position. The mayor said he was not necessarily opposed to arbitration, but that he did not propose to do the arbitrating. The mayor's idea was that if anybody thought he could settle this strike by arbitration, why let him go ahead.

George H. Earle and others prominent in the affairs of the company, had nothing to say; but it was announced unofficially that the P. R. T. had no differences to talk over with anybody. The company is running more and more cars every day, employing more men, and feels certain that it will have its service up to the notch in a few weeks.

There is no doubt whatever that the unions, despite their daily announcement of accessions, are losing men daily. Strikers whose families are beginning to suffer are drifting back by twos and threes to their jobs.

This world famous rifle shot who holds the championship record of 100 pigeons in 100 consecutive shots is living at Lincoln, Ill. Recently interviewed, he says: "I have suffered a long time with kidney and bladder trouble and have used several well known kidney medicines all of which gave me no relief until I started taking Foley's Kidney Pills. Before I used Foley's Kidney Pills I was subjected to severe backache and pains in my kidneys with suppression and oftentimes a cloudy voiding. While upon arising in the morning I would get dull headaches. Now I have taken three bottles of Foley's Kidney Pills and feel 100 per cent. better. I am never bothered with my kidneys or bladder and once more feel like my own self. All this I owe solely to Foley's Kidney Pills and always recommend them to my fellow sufferers." ## INDIANA POLITICS

Observations From the Viewpoint of Our Indianapolis Correspondent.

Indianapolis, March 12.—It is likely that the office of collector of internal revenue for the Terre Haute district will be turned over to Charles G. Covert of Evansville, March 31, and it is said that the headquarters of the district will be taken to Evansville from Terre Haute. On the recommendation of the collector, the commissioner of internal revenue at Washington may order the change. It is expected that Mr. Covert will desire an Evansville headquarters. The government building at Evansville is said to have ample room for the headquarters. It is intimated that in case Senator Beveridge were to put a veto on the removal from Terre Haute, the collector's office would stay in its present location.

The Hon. Claude G. Bowers, Democratic orator, of Terre Haute, who has made somewhat studied attacks on Senator Beveridge in recent speeches at Democratic gatherings, is looked on as speaking with the voice of John E. Lamb of that same Terre Haute, and in the interests of Mr. Lamb's candidacy for the United States senate. Democrats who know the strength of Senator Beveridge, and his popularity with Indiana voters, deprecate very strongly such attacks as that attempted by Orator Bowers. The rank and file of Democrats admit frankly that Senator Beveridge probably would carry Indiana by 100,000 votes on a direct vote of the people. On the other hand, Republicans say that nothing will suit them better than to have the Democrats make Senator Beveridge the issue and go to the people on that basis. Some of the Marshall editors among the Democrats are now advocating a scheme by which they hope to get rid of Thomas Taggart as a candidate for the United States senate. These editors would have the Democratic state convention select the Democratic candidate for United States senator, and they would like mighty well to see to it that the selection be another than wily Tom of French Lick. In view of the fact that Mr. Taggart at this time controls all the machinery for making delegates, and all the machinery of the approaching convention, it is difficult to see how such a proposition could be put through the resolutions committee, unless Mr. Taggart, who will make that committee, is willing to permit it to go. It is plain that self-respecting Democrats desire to prevent the scandal that blackened the Democratic legislative caucus last year, and which gave rise to the attacks and charges of bribery made by John W. Kern. By taking from the legislative caucus the right to select the Democratic candidate for United States senator, Democrats might put a stop to crooked tricks and secret ballot frauds, alienations and plots. But how can the men who permitted Thomas Taggart to gain control of the machinery, hope to induce him to allow them leeway for their plans. He has his program well made and all things are set his way. He can well defy the anti-Taggart Democrats and tell them to save themselves trouble.

The Democratic press has about given up its attempt to indicate that Senator Beveridge and President Taft are not in accord. As a matter of fact Senator Beveridge and the president never were in better touch on matters of importance. They are together for the statehood measure, on the postal savings bank bill, on the Alaska measure and on other matters of large significance, and Senator Beveridge is the recognized figure in dealing Indiana patronage.

The Review of Reviews for March puts the situation very clearly in the following editorial: "The Republicans can afford to be entirely free from intolerance among themselves respecting differences of opinion about the tariff. It would be ridiculous, for example, for Republicans who supported the tariff bill to invade Indiana this year in an attempt to embarrass Senator Beveridge in his campaign for re-election, merely because his judgment and conscience led him to vote against the present tariff law. He was identified with proposals for certain tariff reforms and improvements. The new tariff law was bound to be enacted in any case; and when the conference committee struck out the significant clause in that section of the bill which Senator Beveridge had drafted he was quite justified in making his protest by voting against the bill. Thousands of business men who had selected Senator Beveridge as their spokesman worked hard to secure a formal tariff commission. They all agreed finally to accept a paragraph in the act which would authorize the president to appoint an expert tariff board to investigate tariff subjects broadly, with a view to future legislation, as well as to advise the president regarding the enforcement of the maximum and minimum arrangement. This paragraph was accepted by the senate. But it was emasculated in conference committee. Senator Beveridge had the approval of the Republicans of his state in the course that he pursued. The sincerity and frankness of men like Mr. Beveridge are among the chief assets of the Republican party. His re-election to the senate is assured in case of a Republican legislature. His strength with the people of Indiana, on the other hand, will be one of the principal factors in the fight for a Republican legislature."

MUST INDORSE PARTY ACTION

Taft Pushing His Claims In Insurgent States.

INDIANA IS FIGHTING GROUND

The President, However, Has Been Unable to Induce Any "Regular" to Take the Lead, Old-Time Republican Leaders Seeming to Be Inclined to Yield Everything to Senator Beveridge, Who, It Is Reported at Washington, Has Resisted the President's Overtures to Have the State Convention Indorse the Tariff Law.

Washington, D. C., March 15.—With a view of securing an indorsement of the Payne-Aldrich law and other constructive work of the administration in the party platforms of the states where insurgency is strong, President Taft has been taking counsel with Republican leaders who have been regular in their support of the party.

Iowa, Minnesota, Kansas, Nebraska and Indiana have been canvassed. The president is seeking to bring this about wherever it is possible with the co-operation of the insurgents, but failing to harmonize the factions, Mr. Taft is inclined to insist on the indorsement of the party action as a basis of the campaign.

It is learned that the president made overtures to Senator Beveridge through a Republican member of the house to bring about an agreement for an indorsement by the Indiana state convention of the tariff law. Failing in that, the president has turned to other party leaders from that state, asking whether it is possible to put through an indorsement of the party's tariff work regardless of the attitude of Beveridge. The reply to this has been that there is a disposition in Indiana at present to let Senator Beveridge run the party machine in his own way, as he is dispensing the patronage and naming the members of the state organization.

In other states the president has met with more encouragement except in Wisconsin. The LaFollette followers have not been consulted. While some of the Stephenson and stalwart followers appear to be where they can run "steam rollers" over LaFollette, there is no such optimistic view entertained in administration circles. If an indorsement of the tariff law comes from Wisconsin it will be welcomed, but no extra plate has been laid at the party board to entertain this guest.

Indiana is fighting ground for the administration if only the president can induce some regular to take the lead, but since the election results of 1908 a spirit of sullen inactivity has settled over some of the old-time leaders and they seem to be inclined to yield everything to Beveridge.

GREEN BACK IN PRISON

Famous Indiana Horsethief Escaped and Resumed Old Tricks.

Michigan City, Ind., March 15.—Robert Green, arrested in Elyria, O., for horse stealing, has been returned to the northern Indiana prison to serve twelve years of an indeterminate sentence. Green escaped from the Indiana institution about a year ago and after regaining his liberty stole and sold four horses. He has been followed all over the country by prison officials. Green three years ago was president of the Waynetown (Ind.) bank and was reputed to be worth $50,000. The bank failed and to recuperate his fortune he began the systematic stealing of horses, it is alleged. When arrested he made confession of the stealing of fifty-two horses.

TRAGEDY A MYSTERY

Who Shot Claude Dailey on Highway Near Terre Haute?

Terre Haute, Ind., March 15.—Claude Dailey, twenty-two years old, was found dead with a bullet wound back of his ear. He had started to drive to his home on a farm and the tracks of the buggy showed the vehicle had been turned just beyond where the body was found and started back in the direction of where it came. No trace as yet has been found of any companion having been with Dailey. The supposition of those with whom he spent the evening was that he was to go home alone. He was a man of good habits and supposed to have no enemies.

Attracting Wide Attention. Bloomfield, Ind., March 15.—The trial of the Rev. Edward O. Tilburn, former pastor of the Christian church at Linton, under indictment for embezzlement of church funds, is in progress in the Greene circuit court. Many witnesses have been summoned, and the case has attracted wide attention.

Warsaw Man Shoots Self. Warsaw, Ind., March 15.—Within three hours after the time set for the marriage, which was postponed by the bride-to-be, Don Cripe shot himself. He probably will die.

HAS HAD ENOUGH OF THE JUNGLE

Colonel Roosevelt Glad to Get Back to Civilization.

WARM WELCOME AT KHARTOUM

It Was There That Mrs. Roosevelt and Ethel Met the Colonel and Kermit Upon Their Emergence From Long Stay in the Jungle and the Greeting Was Properly Enthusiastic—In Commenting Upon His Big Hunt, the Colonel Said It Was Splendid While It Lasted, but That It Had Lasted Long Enough.

Khartoum, March 15.—Both looking as hard as nails and wearing khaki suits, Colonel Roosevelt and his son Kermit arrived here Monday afternoon. As he stepped ashore from the steamer that had brought him down the Nile, it was thought that the colonel wore a rather bored expression as he regarded the group of British officers that had gathered to greet him. The black soldiers who formed a guard presented arms as the former president stepped on land. The scene was perhaps an unpleasantly abrupt reminder of the abandonment of primitive camp life for the formalities and conventions of the modern world. The incident, however, had no lasting effect. The colonel was fairly beaming with good nature and smiled broadly as he heard a battery of cameras click around him.

Slatin Pasha, inspector general of the Sudan, and other prominent British, escorted the Roosevelts, father and son, to the palace of the sirdar, where introductions were made. An hour later the two travelers crossed the Nile to meet Mrs. Roosevelt and Miss Ethel. As the train pulled into the station Miss Ethel was looking out of a car window and Colonel Roosevelt and Kermit were alongside before the train came to a halt. They ran joyously along the platform shouting a greeting and waving their hats frantically. Happy embraces and warm words of welcome followed. When the party alighted all were conducted back to the palace.

In an interview Colonel Roosevelt spoke repeatedly with the utmost enthusiasm concerning the trip which is drawing to a close. "I believe, after all," he said, "that I am glad to be back. It was splendid while it lasted, but it lasted long enough."

GARVAN WINS POINT

Court Will Compel Packers to Show Books to Grand Jury.

Trenton, N. J., March 15.—Justice Swayzee has informed Prosecutor Garven that he will sign an order compelling the National Packing company, Armour & Co., Morris & Co., and Swift & Co., to produce their books of minutes of stockholders' and directors' meeting before the Hudson county grand jury, which has been investigating the cold storage plants with a view to determining whether an illegal conspiracy exists to keep up the prices of food products.

As soon as signed the orders will be filed with the supreme court clerk and immediate steps will be taken by Prosecutor Garven to have service made on the defendant corporations. The decision of Justice Swayzee was a surprise to the corporation lawyers, inasmuch as it establishes a precedent which may be far-reaching in its effects. Heretofore it has been generally accepted that the production of books of corporations could not be compelled in criminal proceedings. This view Justice Swayzee held to be inconsistent with the powers delegated to grand juries and the duties imposed upon them.

Krauss Divorce Case in Progress. Marion, Ind., March 15.—Mrs. Rae Krauss, under life sentence in the Indiana women's prison for the murder of her stepdaughter, Crystal Krauss, was released from prison to appear in the divorce trial against her husband, William H. Krauss of Hartford City, now in progress here. The case is being warmly contested.

Couldn't Endure Disappointment. Granite City, Ill., March 15.—After receiving a letter from his fiancée breaking off their engagement, Anthony Timensky shot himself through the lung and through the head. Then he entered a saloon. Waving a revolver, he compelled every person to drink to the woman's health. He died in a few minutes.

Threatens Further Bloodshed. Seaford, Del., March 15.—Armed with three large revolvers and a shotgun, William J. Turpin, a negro gambler and speak-easy operator, shot and almost instantly killed Joseph Elliott, another negro. Turpin is still at large and has threatened to kill any man who shall attempt to capture him.

An Entire Substitute. Washington, March 15.—The Arizona and New Mexico statehood bill has been reported to the senate from the committee on territories by Senator Beveridge, who said it was an entire substitute for the house bill.

UP A STUMP

Tom Taggart Not Prepared to Answer Marshall Proposition.

[Special Correspondence.]

Indianapolis, March 15.—Thomas Taggart and his henchmen were found circling in uncertainty about a real political problem last night, when asked to express themselves on the question of Democratic state convention action on the United States senatorship. Governor Marshall came out with a suggestion that the state convention of Democrats name the Democratic senatorial candidate and not leave that important duty to the legislative caucus. Thomas Taggart was not prepared to say what view he would take of the Marshall proposition. As is well known, the Marshall move is directed against Mr. Taggart's senatorial candidacy, and is essentially an anti-Taggart play.

Governor Thomas Marshall, while serving notice that he will refuse to consider the United States senatorship on his own account, declares that it shall be left to a choice of the Democratic state convention just who the caucus nominee of the Democrats shall be. The movement is an anti-Taggart one, and is occasioned by the senatorial candidacy of Thomas Taggart, the smiling boss who has been permitted to gain control of the Democratic state organization, inside and out, up and down, and absolutely. It is argued that Mr. Taggart might be able to handle a Democratic legislative caucus, as in the one of last winter, but that he cannot swing a majority of the state convention for himself, or for any of his chosen friends, for senator. If Governor Marshall and his friends succeed in putting the question of the senatorship before the Democratic state convention, there will be a pretty fight, and it is not at all sure that the strength of Marshall and Slack, and all the other forces, including John W. Kern, will be sufficient to down Mr. Taggart. In any event, the struggle is a hard one, and the anti-Taggart people are woefully slow in starting. Republicans will watch the struggle with interest, hoping that the Democrats will pick the best possible candidate for senator—one worthy to be matched seriously against a man like Senator Beveridge. If it happens that the Democrats split radically, or make a misplay in the convention, the Republicans are ready to submit that Senator Beveridge is available as a solution of the senatorial problem for all parties, on the ground that he tries always to serve all the people to the best of his ability.

The Hon. Robert M. Miller, of Franklin, is announced as a candidate for the Republican nomination for supreme judge in the third district. Judge Miller is a veteran of the civil war, and is 64 years old. He is a man of high legal standing, being of the well known firm of Miller and Barnett. He was born in Decatur county, and is a graduate of Hanover college. He has practiced law in Johnson county since 1870, and when nominated for circuit judge in Johnson and Brown counties, reduced a normal Democratic majority of 1,200 to 121.

Emmett F. Branch, former speaker of the Republican house, is candidate for state representative in Morgan county. Major Branch was urged to make the race for congress in the Fifth, but declined to do so. He is already being talked of as a speaker-ship possibility.

The merry war between George H. Voigt, of Jeffersonville, and W. E. Cox, of Jasper, revival of the old Zenor-Cox feud, may now be said to be on in earnest. Mr. Voigt has entered the race for congress formally, and is making an earnest canvass against the congressman in the Third. Republicans in the district prefer Cox, if they are to be represented by a Democrat. It is recognized that Voigt is a hard fighter, and that he has some advantage in being backed by the state machinery erected by Doc. Peyton at the reformatory. Congressman Cox relies on his strength with the people, and has been successful in forcing the thing to a district primary.

Governor Judson Harmon, of Ohio, has rebuked Mayor Tom Knotts, and the Shively crowd of anti-Marshall Democrats in northern Indiana, by refusing to attend their Harmon and Harmony banquet at Gary.

Charles Warren Fairbanks, former vice president, now on his way home after a tour of the world, said in an interview in London, that he would re-enter politics on his return to Indiana. Mr. Fairbanks says that just now he is busy forwarding the proposition to limit armaments among the nations in the interests of peace. His entry into politics will be delayed somewhat by his activities in the cause of peace. Mr. Fairbanks does not say what line his political activities will take.

Russia Making War Preparations. Vienna, March 15.—Advices received here indicate that Russia is putting her military establishment along the eastern Siberia-Manchurian frontier upon a war footing so that she will be prepared to hurl a vast body of fully equipped troops into Manchuria upon a moment's notice. Immediate reinforcements are reported to have been ordered for all the posts in this territory the garrisons at all the strategic points along the frontier to be increased to the magnitude of an army corps.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Their Arrival Home.

Washington, March 14.—After touring the world and receiving attentions from the rulers of every country they visited, former Vice President Fairbanks and Mrs. Fairbanks have sailed from Liverpool to New York on the steamer Mauretania. A cablegram from Liverpool says that many friends were at the pier to bid them farewell. The indications are that there will be another round of entertainments for Mr. and Mrs. Fairbanks when they reach this side. The first will be a reception and dinner in their honor by the Daughters of Indiana in New York city. From the metropolis they will come to Washington. According to word from Indianapolis, a state-wide reception will await the homecoming travelers upon their arrival there.

The WORLD'S SHORTEST and GREATEST ORATION

Executive Mansion.

Washington, November 19, 1863

Now and seven years ago our fathers brought forth, upon this continent, a new nation, conceived in liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that "all men are created equal."

Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure. We have come to dedicate a portion of it, as a final resting place for those who here have given their lives for that nation. We are here to dedicate a portion of it, as a final resting place for those who here have given their lives for that nation. We are here to dedicate a portion of it, as a final resting place for those who here have given their lives for that nation.

It is rather for us, the living, to dedicate this to the great task remaining before us, that, from these honored dead, we take wisdom and courage, to this cause for which they here, gave the last full measure of our lives—that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain; that this nation, shall have a new birth of freedom, and that government of the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth.

The GETTYSBURG ADDRESS, November 19, 1863.

FACSIMILE of the ORIGINAL FIRST VERSION AS IT WAS WRITTEN BY LINCOLN HIMSELF.

HIS VALENTINES.

To Maud I'll send a valentine
A pretty bow, and gilded lace;
She's such a young sweetheart of mine
That gifts like these will be in place;
She'll dance for joy, because, you see,
My sweetheart Maud is only three!

To my old sweetheart, grandma dear,
I'll send a parcel, trim and neat;
Contents I need not mention here—
Something to wear, or drink, or eat;
No matter! She'll consider it
The valentine for her most fit.

For quiet May I'll buy and send
A pretty book to read betimes
(She my good comrade is, and friend);
To saucy Lil some saucy rhymes;
To Ethel flowers; and then—ah, well,
To her whose name I will not tell.

Whose tender eyes before me shine,
Whose sweet face haunts me, angel-fair,
I dare not write a valentine.
I breathe, instead, a trembling prayer
(So dear she is, so far apart),
And send her, silently, my heart!
—Woman's Home Companion.

St. Valentine's Day.

The god of love has a day in this month. Cupid celebrates St. Valentine's day, when hearts are trumps and arrows are flying promiscuously about. St. Valentine was a Roman priest who suffered martyrdom at Rome about 270. He is a saint of most unsavory play, whose sport it is to mate the birds as well as the lads and lassies. He is a grave wag in robe of priestly flow. Chaucer notices this saint in "The Assembly of the Fowles," when they meet together to choose their mates. We hail thy returning day, good St. Valentine! "Thy name is great in the rubric of the saints; not greater indeed is any other father in the calendar; not Jerome, not Ambrose, not Cyril, not Austin, whom all mothers hate; not Origen, who hated all mothers. Thou comest, gay St. Valentine, attended with thousands of little loves, and the air is brushed with the hiss of rusting wings. Singing Cupids are thy choristers and thy preceptors, and instead of the crossier, the mystical arrow is borne before thee. Mysterious personage art thou, oh, thou immortal Go-Beetle!"

FAMOUS SAYINGS OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN

COLLECTED BY DR. DIX

One war at a time.
Keep pegging away.
The majority should rule.
We cannot escape history.
War, at the best, is terrible.
I can bear censure, but not insult.
Important principles must be inflexible.
Towering genius disdains a beaten path.
Bad promises are better broken than kept.
It is not best to swap horses while crossing the river.
Nothing is so local as not to be of some general benefit.
The government must not undertake to run the churches.
If I have risen, why should any be hindered from rising?
There is no grievance that is a fit object of redress by mob law.
The smallest are often the most difficult things to deal with.
The dogmas of the quiet past are inadequate to the stormy present.
We don't read that Hannibal had any money to prosecute his wars with.
People of any color seldom run unless there be something to run from.
Shall he who cannot do much be for that reason excused if he do nothing?
Gold is good in its place, but living, brave and patriotic men are better than gold.
Persisting in a charge which one does not know to be true is simply malicious slander.

Never stir up litigation. A worse man can scarcely be found than who does this.

If the end brings me out all right, what is said against me won't amount to anything.

We all declare for liberty, but in using the same word we do not all mean the same thing.

Advancement—improvement in condition—is the order of things in a society of equals.

Why, as to improvements, magnify the evil and stoutly refuse to see any good in them?

THE OLD VALENTINE.

I have it still, tho' years have fled,
And she is numbered with the dead,
Once more upon my desk it lies,
With love-light in its dreamy eyes;
And while I read its simple rhyme,
I feel my old heart beating time:
"The rose is red, the violet's blue
No knife can cut our love in two."

One winter morning, long ago,
It came to me across the snow,
A little messenger in white,
Though faded now—my heart's delight.
Methinks I see the golden hair,
The eyes that held me in their snare;
And from the past, almost divine,
She speaks through this old Valentine.

Aye, from the past so deeply veiled,
Beyond whose mists our barks have sailed,
Steals forth a hand that seems to write,
Upon this same old page to-night,
As once 'twas writ, that homely rhyme,
So mercilessly touched by time—
"The rose is red, the violet's blue,
No knife can cut our love in two."

I wonder if beyond the blue,
That robes the sky for me and you,
The sweethearts of the olden time
Respect to-day, the childish rhyme,
Like that which now before me lies,
With love-light in its thousand eyes—
It must be so, for I to-day,
Have heard a voice from far away.
—T. C. Harbaugh.

Lincoln and the Southerner.

The Hon. George D. Wise, a former Congressman from Virginia, tells his friends an interesting story about Lincoln. In the spring of 1861 Mr. Wise and two other young Southerners, one of whom stood six feet four, were attending school in Washington. The morning the news of the firing on Fort Sumter reached them, they decided that it was their duty to return at once to Richmond, their home, and enlist in the Southern cause. As Mr. Lincoln was to give a public reception that night, young Wise proposed that they attend, to see what sort of man the President really was.

"No," said the tall fellow. "I for one won't go near the rascal."
"But," urged the third youth, who at once fell in with the suggestion, "there is going to be war, and Mr. Lincoln will undoubtedly rise to great prominence. We really owe it to ourselves to know something about the man."

More abuse followed from the tall fellow.

"Now look here," broke in young Wise, after the argument had gone on for a spell. "Fred and I here are going to that reception to-night, and you are going with us."

The upshot of the matter was that the three young men went to the reception and lined up with several hundred others to greet President Lincoln. Of the three friends the tall fellow stood first in line, with his hands held resolutely behind his back.

"I'll go," he had finally said, "but I'll never shake hands with him."

Slowly the three Southerners passed up with the line until the tall fellow stood opposite the President. His two friends waited breathlessly for the expected or the unexpected, they scarcely knew which.

The President reached out his hand. The tall fellow, with his hands still behind him, looked the President straight in the eye, and with a proud toss of the head, passed on without taking the outstretched hand.

Across the sad face of the President flashed a look of surprise and inquiry, and then a merry twinkle leaped to his eyes, as he half-divined the cause of the slight.

"Just a moment, young man," he said, as the tall fellow was passing on. "How tall are you?"

"I—I—I'm six feet four," stammered the youth, utterly astounded at the question.

"I believe I can match you," returned the President; and then there, before the assembled throng, he turned back to back with the Southerner to determine which of the two was the taller. The Southerner outmatched the President.

"Young man, I can't match you," the President was forced to admit, "but," he added, putting out his hand again and smiling kindly into the eyes of the young fellow, "I never let anybody taller than I am get by me without shaking hands."

And the Southerner, completely overcome, took the extended hand; nor did he ever again speak ill of Mr. Lincoln.—Youth's Companion.

PRINCESS JULIANA.

Little Juliana, the small princess of Holland, is the most important person in that happy kingdom, declares Frederick Palmer in Collier's. From all parts of that little country, so small that if a resident wished to be a commuter in our sense he would have to sleep in Germany or Belgium, pilgrimages are made for one glimpse of the marvelous child. Dutch grandmothers, with their barrel-like bundles of skirts and tight head-dresses, return to their villages, saying, "She's not a bit like her father. She's the picture of her mother." In Delft they say she looks like the Delft babies; in Volendam, like the Volendam babies.

There is no danger of Juliana being spoiled. On the contrary, the whole nation of self-appointed parents are looking on critically to see that she is not.

Her daily life will be as carefully appointed as that of a West Point cadet. She may not go for vacations to Denmark, where gather the royalty of half a dozen nations, the Netherlands among the rest, and enjoy a human, natural and restful time, like poor people at a picnic, or rich people at an Adirondack camp.

The average American girl knows more conventional gaiety in a week than she will know in a year. She is too much and too carefully beloved to have a good time.

Of course she must learn to knit, or offend all the women of Holland. Her mother, it is said, is the richest woman in her own right in Europe, which means that Juliana will have a great deal to give to the poor, but little to spend on herself, if she follows Wilhelm's example.

Her father is German, her grandmother Russian, but she is all Dutch to the Dutch. They have made her so by law and by faith. In her looks and acts they see a mirror of their national traits. Some even find a likeness to William the Silent, which is no compliment to her beauty, according to the standards of outsiders. She refuses to yield her rattle at the nurse's command, and stiffens her lips and sets her chin firmly. That is character, Dutch character!

Champ Clark's Views of Discipline.

When Champ Clark inherited the troubles of John Sharp Williams as minority leader in the House of Representatives he was told that Speaker Cannon had a rod in pickle for him. "So Uncle Joe's gwine to discipline me, is he?" he queried. "Well, I reckon after a feller's been brought up on the brand o' chastisin' they deal out down in ole Missouri, he won't even shy at Cannon crackers. It reminds me uh ole Noah an' th' feller 't got left out o' th' Ark. Ole Noah had been exhortin' an' a-pirootin' round till th' hull kit an' kaboodle was plumb sick o' him. By an' by th' flood came, right on schedule, an' th' ungainly ole Ark went a-sailin' down th' stream on th' topmost crest o' th' rise. Goin' long one day he spies one uh th' ole onregenerates that he kinda' hed it in fr' who hed clim' high up in th' tallest tree in them parts."

"Well, ye old hard-shell' Noah yells to him, 'what do you think now?'"

"Aw," sputters th' ole codger up th' tree, 'this here ain't nary a flood. Down in th' parts where I come from th' folks wouldn't think this here little sprinkle more 'n a spring shower.'"—Success Magazine.

Warning Royalty.

In many ways England is quite as real a democracy as the United States. A story about the young prince Edward, told in the Atlanta Constitution, illustrates well this point. He was sent to school at Osborne. He had just arrived, and was wandering about the grounds, when he was accosted by another small boy, who had already been a term at Osborne.

"Hello!" said the other boy who was the son of a captain in the navy. "You are a new boy. What's your name?" "Edward," the little prince replied. "Edward, what, stupid?" said the other boy. "You must have another name."

"Edward of Wales," said the prince. "Oh, so you're that chap," was his comment, as he walked away. "I hope you won't put on too much side."

In Pittsburgh.

The City Editor—Here's a mighty good story about a young fellow who runs away with a chorus girl.

The Night Editor—What's that! A good story? Why, it's been done to death.

The City Editor—This one hasn't. It's an absolute novelty. The young fellow is neither a millionaire nor a Pittsburgher!

Early Maine Match Factory.

Bath had a match factory 60 years ago, when every one thought there was a fortune to be made in their manufacture. Miss Jane Shaw of Bath has some of the matches manufactured in the Bath shop. They are of pine, shorter than the matches of the present day, and hand dipped.—Kennebec Journal.

Misanthropic Summary.

"People's ideas of Christmas cheer change as they grow older," said the observant citizen.

"Yes," answered Mr. Growcher, "with a small boy it's a stomach-ache, and with a grown man it's a headache."—Washington Star.

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I was a great sufferer from female troubles which caused a weakness and broken down condition of the system. I read so much of what Lydia E. Sore throats are not only painful but sometimes dangerous. Hamlin's Wizard Oil is a good, honest remedy, prompt and certain. For aches, sprains, bruises, cuts, burns, etc., there is nothing better.

It Worked Thus.

Mr. Bjones, of East Cleveland, explained it to us this way:

"I thought my wife might be afraid of tramps and porch-climbers and such, so I bought her a watch-dog. He was a fierce-looking bull, and I thought he'd about fill the bill."

"I got him in the morning, and I had him sent right out to the house. When I got home that night there was one of the toughest-looking hoboos you ever saw, sitting on the porch."

"What in thunder are you doing here?" I asked.

"Well, boss," says he, "I come lookin' fer a handout, and yer lady give me 50 cents to stick around and protect her from dat dog o' yours. He's liable to eat 'er up any minute!"

Saving the Situation.

Dr. Hilary Little Laycock, of Wheeling, at the recent diocesan convention in New York, said of a certain resolution:

"It was, perhaps, unintelligible, like the Wheeling man's prayer. This man, praying in meeting for a brother who lay very ill, cried:

"Oh, Lord, restore unto us our brother, if it does not interfere with Thy perquisites."

"The situation was saved by a deacon who shouted:

"Hallelujah, the Lord knows what he means!"

HARD TO DROP.

But Many Drop It.

A young Calif. wife talks about coffee:

"It was hard to drop Mocha and Java and give Postum a trial, but my nerves were so shattered that I was a nervous wreck and of course that means all kinds of ails."

"At first I thought bicycle riding caused it and I gave it up, but my condition remained unchanged. I did not want to acknowledge coffee caused the trouble, for I was very fond of it. At that time a friend came to live with us, and I noticed that after he had been with us a week he would not drink his coffee any more. I asked him the reason. He replied, 'I have not had a headache since I left off drinking coffee, some months ago, till last week, when I began again, here at your table. I don't see how anyone can like coffee, anyway, after drinking Postum!'"

"I said nothing, but at once ordered a package of Postum. That was five months ago, and we have drank no coffee since, except on two occasions when we had company, and the result each time was that my husband could not sleep, but lay awake and tossed and talked half the night. We were convinced that coffee caused his suffering, so he returned to Postum, convinced that coffee was an enemy, instead of a friend, and he is troubled no more by insomnia."

"I, myself, have gained 8 pounds in weight, and my nerves have ceased to quiver. It seems so easy now to quit coffee that caused our aches and ails and take up Postum."

Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

TRIALS of the NEEDLES

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. Any druggist has these ingredients in stock or will quickly get them from his wholesale house. The Concentrated Pine is a special pine product and comes only in half ounce vials, each enclosed in an airtight case; but be sure it is labeled "Concentrated." This formula cured hundreds here last winter.

MEAT PACKERS MAY HAVE TO SHOW BOOKS

Decision On Garvan's Application Expected Today.

Jersey City, N. J., March 14.—It is expected that Supreme Court Justice Swayze today will hand down his decision on the application of Prosecutor of the Pleas Garvan for an order to compel the National Packing company, Swift & Co., Armour & Co., and Morris & Co. to produce certain books and records for inspection by the grand jury in its cold storage investigation.

Prosecutor Garvan has received a letter from Attorney General Wickersham in reply to his communication requesting Mr. Wickersham to do all in his power to secure if possible the indictment by the federal grand jury in Chicago of beef packers as individuals. The prosecutor feels much more could be accomplished by this course than by the indictment of the packing companies as corporations.

Mr. Garvan refused to make known the contents of the attorney general's letter. It was a private communication, he said, "but it was very satisfactory."

George Simpson of Andover, Mass., assistant treasurer of the American Woolen company, was arrested at Cambridge on a charge of manslaughter after his automobile had knocked down and killed a ten-year-old boy.

DOOR OPEN FOR CONCILIATION

A Hopeful Sign of Peace at Philadelphia.

HELD A FRIENDLY CONFERENCE

Labor Leaders and Officers of the Transit Company Have Finally Got to the Point Where They Are Willing to Talk Over Their Differences
—The Man Who Has Heretofore Blocked All Efforts Toward Arbitration Surprised All by Showing a Conciliatory Mood—Heavy Financial Interests Behind Peace Move.

Philadelphia, March 15.—The streetcar strike will be settled and the general strike called off within forty-eight hours, it is now predicted. The men who blocked all efforts toward arbitration surprised the city last evening by taking the lead in overtures toward the labor unions. George H. Earle held a conference with William D. Mahon and other labor leaders. President Kruger of the Rapid Transit company also was present.

The Rapid Transit company has lost $1,500,000 in twenty-four days, and the outlook was for a receivership and a reorganization, which would prove costly. The information is that a few men financially powerful, heavily interested in the Rapid Transit company, decided that the thing had gone far enough. So a conference was arranged.

It was agreed that no statement be given out, but both the representatives of the strikers and of the transit company said that the conference had been friendly and the door was open for conciliation. The company appeared to assume that the overtures came from the strikers. The strikers were sure that the company had made the first advances. Both sides seemed pleased and confident that peace is in sight.

It was learned that the meeting
resolved itself into a discussion between President Kruger for the company and W. D. Mahon for the carmen. After grievances had been threshed over, Mahon asked what the company was willing to do. Mr. Kruger replied that the company would insist on taking care of 1,400 men who had remained loyal to it and that there were 250 of the strikers that would not get back under any circumstances. Mahon said that the company would have to take all or none.

Mahon said later: "Certain propositions have been made looking to a settlement of the strike. Mr. Earle promised to put several propositions up to the transit company as soon as possible. I have great hopes that peace will come in a day or two."

TO REFORM UPPER HOUSE

Lord Rosebery Makes Motion to Re-constitute the House of Lords.

London, March 15.—The house of lords was crowded when Lord Rosebery arose to initiate the momentous debate on the reform of the house of lords, moving the following resolution:
"First—That a strong and efficient second chamber is not merely an integral part of the British constitution, but is necessary to the well-being of the state and the balance of parliament.

Second—That a second chamber can best be obtained by reforming and re-constituting the house of lords.

Third—That the necessary preliminary to such reform and reconstitution is the acceptance of the principle that possession of a peerage shall no longer in itself give the right to sit and vote in the house of lords.

To Combine Big Electric Plants.
Pittsburg, March 15.—It is asserted that plans are well under way for the amalgamation of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company and the General Electric company. A corporation capitalized at more than $150,000,000 will result if the plans do not miscarry.

Not Able to Do Much.
Leavenworth, Kan., March 15.—John R. Walsh is suffering from heart trouble. Walsh is employed in the identification bureau at the prison for such work as he can do, but Warden Mc-Laughery said his health does not permit him to do much.

Ensley Case in Jury's Hands.
Indianapolis, March 15.—Argument
before the jury in the case of the state against Oliver P. Ensley, charged with embezzling $20,000 from the county funds as treasurer of Marion county, was concluded today and the case
given to the jury.

A Double Domestic Tragedy.
Pearl, Ill., March 15.—Perry Ruble, aged 59, went to the home of his father-in-law, William Johnson, where his wife had been staying. He shot and killed her and then shot himself.

The Kentucky legislature has passed a bill requiring all executions to take place in the penitentiary and prescribing the electric chair instead of hanging.

COX AND ELLIS ARE AGREEIN' ON NOTHIN'

Cincinnati Boss Makes This Point Very Clear.

Cincinnati, March 14.—That he and Chairman Ellis of the Ohio state Republican executive committee have agreed upon a program for the coming campaign in this state, George B. Cox, Republican leader of Hamilton county and the southern district of Ohio, denies emphatically. He declares that so far as any campaigning is concerned, the entire matter is still in the air. Ellis has gone to Washington to confer with President Taft after an interview with Cox in Cox's office, at which Cox later told the newspaper men that "nothing in particular" had been discussed. Mr. Cox was asked what had been accomplished by him and Mr. Ellis.

"Have you and Chairman Ellis agreed on any features of the coming campaign in Ohio," was asked.

"No, we ain't agreein on nothin',"
was the reply.

Asked if that meant that he and Ellis would not be able to work in harmony, Cox replied that it did not mean anything; that he was not discussing the proposition and that time and that alone will tell just what sort of a compromise, if any can be effected in southern Ohio.

Explosion in a Pennsylvania Colliery Claims Seven Victims.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., March 14.—The bodies of the seven workers killed by an explosion in the No. 5 colliery of the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal company Saturday night have been brought to the surface. There were no injured, every man in the zone of the explosion meeting death. Only two men of the gang of nine escaped.
A few minutes before the explosion they had gone for supplies. A few minutes afterward they heard the roar of the explosion and felt the concussion. They rushed to try to give aid to their comrades, but were driven back weak and faint by the fire damp.
They then gave the alarm.

The first rescue gang was driven back by the fire damp. Air passages were built and hose taken down as a means of carrying a stream of fresh air into the explosion zone. So great was the quantity of fire damp, however, that it was six hours after the explosion before it could be dissipated sufficiently to permit the rescuers to reach the top of the plane. The bodies of the seven men were found lying along the plane. Most of the men were lying on their faces with their hands covering their faces, as if to shut out the fire damp. Six widows and twenty-four children are mourning the victims. All but one of the seven were married.

DOG SAVED TRAIN

Intelligent Animal's Actions Attracted Attention to Wreckers' Work.

Cameron, W. Va., March 14.—Annoyed by the barking of a farmer's dog, William Miller followed the animal for a mile along the tracks of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, and in a deep cut found a pile of ties placed there to wreck a train. A New York and Chicago express was due at the time, but as the train was thirty minutes late Miller succeeded in clearing the track before it appeared.
